DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Group I, claims 1-11, in the reply filed on 7/17/2008 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the fields of search are believed to be co-extensive for the groups identified by the Examiner. This is not found persuasive because the groups do not relate to a single general inventive concept and examining each special technical feature presents a serious burden on the Examiner if restriction is not required.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

2. Claims 12-69 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in the reply filed on 7/17/2008.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Byrne et al. (US 5,395,033). Byrne et al. disclose a surgical stapler comprising an end effector (Figure 2) adapted to engage tissue and a plurality of displacement sensors (25, 27) operatively connected to the end effector. The end effector comprises a staple cartridge assembly (14) and an anvil (15) operatively associated with the staple cartridge assembly. The cartridge and anvil define tissue contacting surfaces and the displacement sensor (25) is operatively connected to the tissue contacting surface of the cartridge to measure the distance between the tissue contacting surfaces and thus the thickness of the tissue clamped between the contacting surfaces (col 5, lines 56-61). The sensor is additionally capable of measuring the amount of pressure applied to the tissue clamped between the tissue contacting surfaces since the pressure is dependent upon the area, or thickness of the tissue, for a given applied force. The surgical stapler is capable of performing an anastomosis.

Art Unit: 3734

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

7. Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Byrne et al. (US 5,395,033), as applied to claim 9 above, in view of Racenet et al. (US 2004/0267310). Byrne et al. disclose the invention substantially as claimed as shown above. However, Byrne et al. only disclose a linear stapler (Figure 1) and do not disclose an annular stapler. Racenet et al. disclose a similar surgical stapler and teach the stapler may either be linear (Figure 15) or annular (Figure 19). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the device of Byrne et al. such that the anvil and cartridge were designed as an annular stapler according to the teachings of Racenet et al. such that the device may more readily perform an end-to-end anastomosis.
